

Dr. Jerry Saliki

Dr. Jerry Saliki (DVM PhD) obtained his DVM degree from University of Liège, Belgium, and a PhD in Virology from Cornell University. During his doctoral studies, he worked at the Plum Island Animal Disease Center. He served as Diagnostic Virologist at the Oklahoma Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory (OADDL), as Virologist and Lab Director at the Athens Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory (University of Georgia), and is currently Lab Director at OADDL. He has been an AAVLD member for more than 30 years, serving as Editor-in-Chief of JVDI from 2003-2014, and as President in 2021-22. He received the Distinguished Service Award in 2013 and the EP Pope Award in 2015.

